

Canoeing - Tejo II, Belver-Pego

Preparation guide | EN

A Tejo descent between Belver dam and Pego weir, with rapids and a pace affected by dam releases.

Practical information

Route: Tagus section between Belver Dam and Pego Weir.

Programme: Route subject to river conditions and upstream dam releases.

The experience

The broad river can develop strong currents when the dam releases water. Rapids near Belver and the Pego power-station weir distinguish this section from Tejo I.

Programme and options

The proposal follows the Belver-Pego section and includes a riverside break for rest and food. When the dam is not releasing water, the length may be adjusted to conditions and the group's fitness.

What to bring

Bring food for the planned riverside break.

Requirements and preparation

Dam releases and currents form part of assessing the outing. Share the group's experience and fitness; the format should not be assumed suitable for everyone.
